

Remote IT Security Assessment

How secure is your network?

All companies these days rely on some type of Information Technology (IT) infrastructure to support many business critical functions. Critical data is subject to all sorts of malicious attacks, making IT Security a must for every business. Increased competition forces companies to improve network speed and security, all while limiting the exposure of critical information throughout the organization. A Remote Assessment will verify that the security measures taken at the perimeter of your network were successful, and will discover any hidden vulnerabilities.

Service Overview:

Our team of Certified Information Systems Security Professionals (CISSPs) will perform a Security Assessment on your publicly-accessible network segments. Upon analysis of the data gathered our team of Certified professionals will assess any hazards, threats, and risks that your company is exposed to, but unaware of. These potential security pitfalls could cause damage to information and resources, disrupt business operations, bring law suits upon your business, cause embarrassment, and create numerous other problems that aren't immediately apparent. We can verify the security of your publicly accessible network segments today.
